

Jenna Tosto, PT, DPT

Jenna Tosto-Mancuso is a physical therapist with a Doctorate in Physical Therapy (DPT) from Temple University. She received her B.A. in Communication Disorders and Biopsychology from William Paterson University of New Jersey. Dr. Tosto-Mancuso completed multiple clinical and research affiliations at NYU Langone Health, New York-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center, and the Department of Veterans Affairs during her studies. She previously served as a physical therapist at NYU Langone Rusk Rehabilitation, where she gained experience in adult acute care and adult inpatient neurological rehabilitation. Her clinical and research interest areas include developing and translating novel technology in motor recovery following neurological injury across the lifespan and developing novel clinical approaches in neurorehabilitation.